With your type of insurance, if you have skin testing, allergy serum, and allergy injections there is a major medical deductible that has to be met with these type of procedures. If the major medical has not been met you will be responsible for the total amount of the deductible at the time of service. Also, some insurance policies has a MAX BENEFITS on the policy. Meaning the insurance company will only pay a certain amount on these procedures and after that amount they will not pay any more and patient has to pay the full amount.
